DISTURBANCES GROWING OUT OF THE UNUIVERS

SUFFRAGE AGITATION TO BE CHECKED. BRUSSELS, April 14.-The authorities are taking vigorous measures to prevent a con tinuation of the disturbances growing out of the universal suffrage agitation. The Burgo master of Brussels has issued a decree pro hibiting the holding of any procession or any public assemblage under severe penalties. The socialist leader Volderts is to be made an example of. The authorities know that Volderts is responsible for all the disturb ances and was the ringleader in the rioting. Disorderly demonstrations were renewed in Brussels to-day. The strikers who have left work as a protest against the action of the Chamber of Representatives in rejecting universal suffrage, paraded the streets and twice came into conflict with the police. Strikers have been parading the streets, armed with spades and picks, have attacked and plundered a number of houses and wrecked the works of a colliery. As their numbers increased they have grown more violent and aggressive, and at the latest advices they were threatening to cut the telegraph wires, and thus prevent the news of their depredations and outrages from being carried at once to the authorities. The greatest anxiety prevails. At the meeting to-day of the Comsituation, M. Jansen and M. Feron announced that they and forty other members of the Left would accede to the scheme of M. Nyssen, based on the principle of plural voting. This would give the government who accept Nyssen's scheme the requisiter two, thirds meiority for cerver. the government who accept Nyssen's scheme the government who accept Nyssen's scheme the requisite two-thirds majority for carry-ing the revision of the constitution in the House and thus solving the electoral prob-lem. CROOKED WORK.

Charges Made Against Chicago Grain Inspectors.

CHICAGO, III., April 14. - Indications are that a scandal and probably litigation will result from the big corner in May wheat. Phil Armour, one of the "shorts," charges the bull syndicate with having control of the Board of Grain Inspection, and as a result claims that No. 2, or contract wheat, is graded as No. 3, and cannot be delivered on contract. Armour discovered the corner in May wheat some time ago, and set about crushing it. He bought millions of bushels of No. 1 Northern wheat and moved it to this city. It was thought that No. 1 would grade here as No. 2 contract wheat, but now discovers that the grain inspectors refuse to grade it as No. 2, He has sold millions short and put up a barrel of money in margins during the past ten days. Mr. Armour is caught in the same corner with Ed Partridge and bids fair to drop several of his millions before he extricates himself. Jack Cudahy is the leader of the clique.

HOTEL KEEPERS COMPLAIN.

They Say That Thieves Who Rob Guests Are Not Severely Enough Punished. The St. Louis hotel proprietors have become thoroughly disgusted with certain officials at the Four Courts on account of the manner in which criminals that hotel managers cause to be arrested, are disposed of. It is a notorious fact that the St. Louis hotels are weekly burgiarized. The proprietors, rather than to make the fact public, pay the losses to guests and the robberles are hushed up. Several attempts have been made to convict thieves who make it a business to secure a position in a hotel and then, when the opportunity presents itself, rob a guest and leave for other parts, but on first one pretense and another they always escape the clutches of the law. Last December a man by the name of Will Simpson was employed at the St. James as houseman. After working just one week he stole goods valued at 5100 from a guest named Oilver Anderson. Mr. Thomas P. Miller, the proprietor of the St. James, paid Mr. Anderson for the goods stolen, and had a warrant sworn out against Simpson. He was arrested at Ford's restaurant in January, charged with grand larceny, and the Grand-Jury found a true bill against him. When the case came up in the Criminal Court yesterday Mr. Miller was not notified of the fact and Simpson got a short jall sentence by pleading guilty to petit larceny. When Simpson was arrested he was warring some of the clothes he stole from Mr. Anderson, and had two pawn tickets on his person calling for the balance of the goods he made away with. agers cause to be arrested, are disposed

A petition was circulated on 'Change to-day asking that the Exchange close at noon on Saturday from April 15 to Oct. 81. Both on Saturday from April 15 to Oct. 81. Both the New York and the Chicago markets will close at this hour, and many are desirous that St. Louis should take similar action. The petition will go before the Board of Directors, where the matter of the legality of such an adjournment under the rules of the Exchange will be discussed. Many directors are of the opinion that such an adjournment cannot be taken without a previous change in the rules, as under the present regulations it appears that while the exchange can be adjourned for a single day by a viva voce vote such a vote cannot authorize an adjournment for a series of days.

BITTER BY A DOG. - Edward Krige, Rvin

L. M. Rumsey's Manufacturing Establishment Badly Damaged.

THE LOSS ON STOCK AND BUILDING ES-TIMATED AT $50,000.

Blaze Broke Out Shortly After the Place Had Been Opened Up This Morn-ins Origin of the Fire Uncertain—The ses Fully Covered by Insurance.

This morning at 7:15 o'clock fire was dis-sovered on the second floor of the four story stone front building at Nos. 806, 808, 810 and 812 North Second street, occupied by the 1. M. Rumsey Manufacturing Co. The smoke from the fire spreading through the building aroused the suspicions of the city book-kee p-er, Joe Boeffier, whose office is on the same floor where the fire originated. He spreads where the fire originated. He spread the alarm, and several employes rushed out of the building and tried to sound an alarm. They were either too excited or ignorant of the working of the alarm box, for Officer inding of the Third District, who dheard the cry of "fire," came running up to the box and seeing the employes in a quandary as to how to sound the alarm, he pulled the hook himself.

When the first detachment of the Fire De-partment reached the scene, the fire had spread over the second floor to the rear of the building, where it struck the draft in the freight elevator's hatchway and the fiame soon elimbed the greased ropes and woodwork of the elevator to the upper floors and the roof. Despite the quick work of the firemen the flames continued to make headway and building was burning rather derecty. The prospect of a serious configuration was quite brilliant at this juncture, but a second alarm which was sounded brought sufficient reinent and water supply to keep the fire the confines of the building, Nos. 806

When the engines responding to the second alarm reached the ground the fire had eaten through the roof; that part of the building alarm reached the ground the fire had eaten through the roof; that part of the building being constructed with wood, with a coating of tar and tar-paper, burned rapidly. Great portions of it fell through to the fourth floor, but this floor, as well as the third and second floors, remained firmly intact. The rubber beiting, packing and other rubber goods stored on the third and floorth floors suffered mostly from the flames. The third floor was the storeroom for from $200,000 to $300,000 worth of pumps and plumbers' supplies. The damage to these pumps is not great, as the fire was not hot enough to melt them, and the floors remaining solid, few of the pumps fell through to the lower floors and were broken. The varnish and paint was burnt off them and will necessitate repainting, about the principal loss suffered among this class of goods.

When the fire broke through the roof it appeared for about thirty minutes that the adjoining structures to the south would also be ignited. The L. M. Rumsey company occupled two of the buildings to the south as actore-rooms for machinery, boilers and hardware. The judicious placing of several heavy streams by thief Lindsay, however, soon drove the threatening flames back to the starting point. Streams were played into the burning building from all points, and within an hour the fire was safely under control. It appeared as an easy fire to handle, but it proved a stubborn one to the firemen. Better work could have been done on Second street were it not for the position of the electric light and other wires.

The building which was burned formerly beinged to the McCune estate and was erected in 1868. The Rumsey Manufacturing Co. have occupied the structure for more than a score of years, having moved into it from their original place of business on Main and Franklin avenue. The building is damaged considerably, but the stock did not suffer as much as would be supposed, on account of its being mostly of metallic nature. The firm has recently been increasing the stock, however, an machine, were stored in the building.

The estimated damage to the stock and building is $100,000, and as the company has recently increased the insurance, taking out two new policies, it is more than covered.

The fire, as near as could be learned, started in the oakum-room, which is in the center of the second floor. The employes are not allowed to smoke nor is any person on business who enters the place. In view of this fact it is a mystery what started the fire. It is believed to be due to an electric light wire or spontaneous combustion. The company makes its own electric light, but the boilerroom is independent of the structure destroyed this morning.

There seemed to be a wide disversion of opinion as to the amount of loss incurred, and no one could or cated to give any figures.

Mr. E. M. Rumsey arrived on the scene about $180 o'clock and seemed rather put out over the fire. When asked for the amount of stock on hand, the insurance, or any other fact, he said he did not know what they were, and that the questioner was as well able to Judge as he was. Who carried the insurance he did not know, as Mr. Baumgartener, the Treasurer, was out of the city, and it was his business to attend to all of those matters. The books were all in the vault, which was covered and draped with the Salvage Corps' tarpaulins.

Moses Rumsey, the Secretary of the company, was seen in the temporary office established over one of the warehouses, and said:

Moses Rumsey, the Secretary of the com-pany, was seen in the temporary office estab-lished over one of the warehouses, and said:

"I have not the slightest idea what the loss is or how much insurance we carry?"

"Who do the buildings belong to?"

"They all belong to us, the burned one and all the rest of them."

"Will you continue doing business right along without interruption?"

"Yes. We are going right ahead now. The customary orders are coming in by the morning mail, and everything will go on just as abasis. Of cause, some of the orders will be elightly delayed, because some of the stock will have to be replaced."

As Tar as could be learned the insurance was carried mainly by Martin Collins and George H. Markham.

Chief Lindsay estimates the loss to the building at about 100 per party. H. Markham.
Lindsay estimates the loss to the grat about $5,000 or $6,000, the main being done to the roof and the two harm being done to the roof and the two upper floors.

Several of the employes of the establishment estimate the amount of stock carried in the building which was on fire at $200,000, but as a great deal of it was only wet and is not really damaged by water they did not think the loss very great.

J. G. Eselein, who was among the first to discover the fire, explained to Mr. Rumsey now it happened by saying:

'if saw smoke coming from the room next to the pipe-room and thought there was a fire. Tran in, and just as I got there the fire mays in a mass of fames through the floor, we threw all the water there was in the barrels on it, and then I ran down to turn on the alarm.'' the character of the performance and the large attendance. Blind Boone is surely no less a wonder in the realm of music than was Blind Tom, and besides has his other faculties fairly well developed. Various musical instruments were imitated, two airs were played at the same time and solos by Stella May were other features of the entertainment.

and solos by Stella May were other leatures of the entertainment.

The climax of interest was reached when Mr. John Lange, the manager, called on any one in the audience to play a piece for Boone to repeat. In response to this Mrs. J. F. Dann was called out, and after striking various chords, which he analyzed without hesitation, she played quite a difficult selection, which he repeated without a break or variation.

The whole performance was well received by the entire audience, and many a staid and plous deacon laughed louder and complimented more than he thought the Lord allowed.

Another performance will be given to-night in the First Christian Church, on Locust street, near Thirty-first street.

the findings of the committee that a combine, known as the Minnesota Bureau of Coal Sfatistics, exists in the State; that it has been able, in all the leading cities of the State, to force all dealers not subscribers of the bureau out of the coal business, and that this combine has gradually raised the price of anthracite coal until it now sells at but a few cents less than 59 per ton. The committee also recites the fact that it has secured an indictment against the central figure of the combine for perjury, and is preparing cases, with the aid of the Attorney-General against several members of the combine for criminal conspiracy. In conclusion the committee recommends to the two Houses that the attention of the Governor be directed to the evils the people are now suffering under from this and other like combinations and respectfully urge that the power of the State be exerted to the utmost to the end that they may be relieved from the great dangers that now threaten them, and, if no adequate remedy can be had in our own courts, that these vicious and demoralizing combinations be prosecuted under the Federal law in the courts of the United States.

Mr. C. eward of New York spoke on behalf of the seward of New York spoke on behalf of the Edison company. He argued that the Edison patent was entirely distinct from any that had been issued before, and exhibited a quantity of models and drawings, with the intention of showing that the Columbian company's process of operation and manufacture was the same in principle as that covered by the Edison patent. Mr. Willett, on behalf of the Columbia company, argued that the Gobel patent covered the processes employed by the defendant. The decision of Judge Hallett will be awaited with great interest, as a number of cases of a similar nature will be partially settled by his opinion.

JIM BRENNAN'S METHODS.

His Actions Were Irregular, But Are Not Punishable by Law.

The expose of the last official acts of the Noonan-Brennan regime as given in Wednes day's Post-Disparch created no little con sternation among the members of the "push" whose income has been augmented to no inconsiderable degree by similar methods during the past four years. Jeff Storts was, perhaps, the only one of the storts was, perhaps, the only one of the ''workers' who retained his complacency in the face of the publication. He regarded the additional notoriety he had gained as a new feather in his cap, and swaggered about the Four Courts boasting of how he had 'done up the gang.'' For ways that are dark and tricks that are vain the Heathen Chinee is is not alone peculiar.

Jim Brennan's action in remitting fines and bond forfeitures in the absence of Mayor Noonan, while not strictly legal and lacking much of being morally right is still in view of a liberal interpretation of the law hardly a punishable offense. According to a decision rendered by City Counseior Marshall Brennan was assuming an illegal authority which he did not possess when he signed the remits without expressed permission from Mayor Noonan on the day in question, but the subsequent indorsement of his action by the ex-hayor would tend to legalize his action. A query as to the remit book from which the stub showing that a remit in the Bothmann bond forfeiture had been abstracted, forming part of the records of the Mayor's office, and the mutilation of the same proving a punishable offense, was answered by Counselor Marshall with the statement that no documents not required by law to be kept were a part of the legal same proving a punishable offense, was answered by Counselor Marshall with the statement that no documents not required by law to be kept were a part of the legal records, and that the law did not require the keeping of a record of remits issued.

Mayor Walbridge was asked to express an opinion upon the action of ex-Secretary Brennan on his inaugural day. "I must refuse to express an opinion as to the legal aspect of the action of femoving a stub from the remit book," he said, "but I should suppose that the book formed part of the records of this office. Of course it must be remembered that the day was the occasion of my inauguration, and as this office was crowded with visitors anyone could have secured possession of the book long enough to remove the stub and escape detection. I have been asked to issue a new remit in the place of the one issued to Bothmann and which he neglected to file until too late, but I refused to do so on general principles even before the publication of the article showing how it was granted."

heing sent to the Department of Arts at the Chicago World's Fair.

The various schools of art in the country have had about the same amount of space assigned to each by Dr. Peabody, the director of the department.

The space to be occupied by the St. Louis school is only $42 feet, so that there will be a comparatively small number of studies to represent each class of work.

The specimens selected represent the best work done during the past two years, and the selections have been made so as to represent the school rather than the work of individual students. Owing to the small amount of space it was necessary to exclude many excellent pieces of work. The exhibit includes studies from the classes in drawing and painting from life, from the bead, from the antique and from still life; also, sketches in pencil, pan and ink, and color, pictorial compositions, and plaster casts from models made in clay. The studies have been attractively framed and will compare very favorably with the exhibits from schools in the East.

The negroes were frequenters of a saloon run by Albert Reed and Marwood Derrickson both colored. He was captured the same afternoon and made a confession, in which he declared that Reed and Derrickson had hired him to commit the deed for a compensation of $2.50, and promised to get him off should he be arrested.

Reed and Derrickson were arrested as accompilers. Hill was convicted and sentenced, and recently, when all hope of a reprieve had vanished, told Rev. James H. HOSTILITY OF THE CLEVELAND PRES-BYTERY TO THE ORGANIZATION.

State President M'Clain Says That the Society Does Not Destroy the Allegiance of Its Members to Their Churches-Rev. Dr. Brookes Defends the Society Againsts Its Critics.

Local Christian Endeavorers and prominent Presbyterians were deeply concerned in a report from Cleveland, O., to-day, that highwaymen attempted to hold up and the Presbytery of that city had declared its murder an insurance agent, Lafayette Billig, hostility to the Young People's Society of hostility to the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor. The crusade was made because the society was said to said the interest of the young in the church, and to instill in their hearts an allegiance to an association foreign to the church. A pastor of one of Cleveland's Presbyterian the Y. P. S. C. E. in his church and had or ganized a distinctively Presbyterian society.

Brookes, pastor of the Washington and Compton avenues Presbyterian Church, whether he expected the St. Louis Presbytery to follow in the footsteps of the Cleveland Presbytery. "No.I do not think that any such action will be taken by the Presbytery," said he.

Presbytery, "No.I do not think that any such action will be taken by the Presbytery," said he.

"How do you regard the anti-Endeavor Society policy of the Cleveland Presbytery, Doctor?"

"I do not believe there is a spirit of hostility to the society prevalent in the Presbyterian Church at large, Certainly I do not see how the allegiance of the young people to their several churches can be weakened merely because a few times each year they hold union meetings at which all denominations are represented. The ministers do the same thing when they attend the meetings of the Evangelical Alliance. I have recently been at several Presbyterial Christian Endeavor Conventions in several parts of the State, at which only branches of the society attached to our churches were represented. This indicates that the Y.P. S. C.E. does not aim at the extinction of denominational lines." If the Presbyterian Church were to organize a young people's society under its immediate control and as a rival to the Endeavor Society, such a move would not be new among Christian churches. A few years ago the Methodist Church founded the Epworth League. The objects of this society are identical with the aims of the Y.P. S. C. C. Both bodies look to the cultivation of religious interest in the minds and hearts of the young. But the Epworth League is under the watchful eye of the Methodist bishops and elders, while the Y. P. S. C. E. is an independent, autonomous organization. Perhaps the action of the Cleveland Presbytery may be but another effort of the conservative element in the denominations to stem the tide of non-sectarianism which has become rampant in late years.

Sheriff B. G. White described his journey for Hickey to Butte, Mont., and his experience with him during his return trip. He found a key on Hickey while returning to Arkansas that would unlock his irons and which had been made from an old spoon. Hickey had a file on his person. A. J. Werner, the officer from Montaua, testified that Burkhardt first told him what he knew of the Clayton murder in August, 1892. He has made contradictory statements. He said that while on the train en route to Arkansas Hickey went to Burkhardt's berth in the sleeper and whispered to him. From that time on Burkhardt made several efforts to escape. Explaining this, Burkhardt said he was told by Hickey that if he testified against him in Arkansas they would both be hanged. He promised Hickey to go no further, and tried to get away. When the State had introduced two other un-When the State had introduced two other un-When the State and introduced two other un-important witnesses it rested the case.
The defense introduced no testimony. The Court remanded Hickey to jail without bail to await the Grand-jury investigation.

LANDERS IN THE PENITENTIARY. LITTLE ROCK, Ark., April 14. - Sheriff White arrived this morning with Nat Landers, alias Burkhardt, the informer in the Clayton murder case, and delivered him to the peniten der case, and denvered him to the perhanditary authorities for safe-keeping. Burkhardt stands charged with being accessory to the murder, but is held more for the purpose of insuring his attendance upon the Grand-jury when it meets in October. Last night Burkhardt telegraphed to Hon. W. H. H. Clayton of Fort Smith as follows:

You pledged me your word and honor that I should not be arrested. Do you mean to keep your word? Burkhardt is very anxious to get away. He said this morning that he had a very important case in Butte which would be called in a few days and it was necessary that he should be there. "They have failed to corroborate my testimony," he said, "and I don't see why the people of Conway county should go to the expense of having another trial. It was my understanding before I left Montana that the prosecution would have witnesses on hand at the preliminary examination to verify all my statements. I have done my part and told the truth and if Hickey is not convicted the State is to blame for it.

Soon after this blood poisoning ensued and to save his life for the ime being it was necessary to amputate his foot. This, however, did not much improve his condition, and after a few days it was found that his leg would also have to come off. The exhaustion from those operations caused his death. MAYOR WALBRIDGE could have no difficulty in finding "cause" for the removal of Democratic appointees, if Republican hunger for "pap" is sufficient cause.

In Rhode Island they have elections which do not elect. The Democratic candidates who got pluralities of the popular vote on the 4th will probably be defeated by the Legislature as soon as that body is filled up and organized. In that little State as elsewhere Republicanism power of government to their direct and thrives on old and worn out methods of political procedure.

FURIOUSLY HUNGRY.

The St. Louis organ boldly assumes that t is not only the right but the duty of the Republican party to grab any office it has the power to take, by any means fair or foul. The city charter, we are told, need not prevent Mayor Walbridge and the Republican majority of the Council from immediately grabbing for their already huge spoils machine all those appointive offices which the charter expressly forbids the his four-year term.

The organ tells him that his power to remove "for cause" in the meantime can safely be made a pretext for "a clean sweep" utterly nullifying the charter provision. The Mayor, being judge of the cause, can hold that the good of "the service" calls for a Republican appointee in place of a Democratic appointee, and on that ground alone remove any Democratic appointee before his charter term is half out, and put a Republican in his place.

When partyism and spoils greed become to this extent regardless of law or decency, they are capable of the most unblushing corruptions in office and ballot box frauds in elections. We trust that there is enough decency and respect for the city charter among the Republicans of St. Louis to sit down on the office hungry elements that now threaten the party with more disparce and bitter faction fights than it has had to carry under any former municipal had to carry under any former municipal administration. We do not deny that there may be good cause for removing one or more of the appointive officers. But the fact that a man is a Democrat, or that he was appointed by Mayor Noonan, is not, as the spoils-hungry organ contends, good cause for re-

The purpose of the charter provision was to prevent removals for any such reason, or for any but non-partisan causes, sufficient to justify removal in the opinions of both Democrats and Republicans.

If the Mayor removes, the Council elects the successor. If the Council removes, the Mayor appoints the successor. If machine-rigging purpose, good citizens of all parties will note the proceeding with disgust, and the party will soon be rent with internal feuds which Democrats will contemplate with amused complacency.

THE ROACH CASE

The attempt of Republican Senators to force the Senate into an investigation of the character and record of Senator Roach of North Dakota brings up the question of the propriety of that or any other legislative body's looking into the personal antecedents of any one who may be elected to its membership.

It is charged that Senator Roach was at one time involved in a dishonest transaction, for which, however, he was never prosecuted in court. There is no question either of his eligibility for membership in the Senate or of the legality of his election. Whatever may have been his connection with the crime charged against him his personal character and conduct for years past have been such as to win for him the confidence of the peo ple of his State. The only peg upon which the Senate could possibly hang an investigation of his past or an objection to his retention of his seat, is the unproved re-

But even if Roach were a worse man than his conduct shows him to be and if a more substantial charge lay against him as long as his eligibility under the law is unimpaired or the legality of his election unaffected it would be difficult to see the force of the Republican contention that his case. If Congress should carry its constitutional right to pass judgment upon its members beyond the question of legal qualification and election and into questions of personal character and fitness it might practically deny to the people the right of free choice in the selection of their representatives. Senators Hoar and Chandler, who are pushing this investigation fight for the Republicans, can neither find good ground for it nor show a beneficial object to be gained by it. It is impossible, therefore, to credit them with a higher motive than a desire to make political capital by besmirching a Democratic Senator as badly as some of their own party Senators are besmirched. The people are familiar with the characters and records of Senators and the only result of such an investigation would be to exhibit the dirty linen of both parties. If the Senate can find no better work than that to do it had better adjourn.

THE FEOPLE CANNOT BE TRUSTED."

In his speech against the election of United States Senators by the people, Senator Hoar of Massachusetts gave utterance tosentiments which are doubtless held by the majority of Eastern Republican leaders. but which few of them would dare to breathe. "I am not afraid to say to the American people'' said he, "that it is dangerous to trust them with any great inconsiderate control,"

This is the paternalistic idea out of which in these days grow monopoly, special privileges, coddled commerce, plutocracy and every other form of oppression which the ingenuity of the money-getting wit can devise and the commercial conscience can condone. The American people, according to this view, 'cannot be trusted'' to take care of them-Mayor to take charge of till the middle of the country' and who are so devoted to them that no price is too high to pay for the election of Senators whose views are "sound" on corporations, privileges, land grants and Government subsidies to railroad and steamship lines. It is the old aristocratic idea modernized and brought down to date. It implies the monopoly of political skill by a class qualified for political duties by the possession more or less benevolent.

This senatorial utterance indicates the letting the trusts alone. revival of a sentiment which disappeared they knew what was best for their own of abatement. interests or at least that it was better to trust their own judgment than that of selfconstituted rulers—no matter how fatherly and benevolent. But their errors of policy during the past thirty years have led them into the trap set by politicians of the Hoar, Lodge, Quay variety. A total reversal of this policy is absolutely necessary to the existence of Democracy itself.

IT would be well if the patriothe people f Columbia would send on their World's Fair admission money at once, so that it may be paid in advance. The Fair Finance Committee the other day discovered a deficit of $500,000, and to save themselves they had to hypothecate gate receipts at the banks. This is distressing, and the Chicagoese charge it all to the Government, which has been too poor to turn over to the Exposition authorities the $570,000 appropriated by the last Congress for awards. I read in the Post-Disparch an article about sewing machine work, signed "Nell Nelson." Like her, I have tried sheets and shirts and neckties, and was obliged to give it up, as my spinal column could not stand the constant motion of the machine. And then I tried to sew by hand. I pieced quilts and sold them. A quilt with 7,500 pieces and sold them. A quilt with 7,500 pieces in it and quilted by hand only brought the sum of $5 when finished. I used five spools of Coats' cotton, 250 yards on each spool. In fifteen years I have made 100 quilts, and they averaged $4.50 apiece. How do you think any woman could live and be healthy on such, pay rent and keep a fire and food on that kind of work in our great city. But we have just such conditions right here. Making rag carpet is still worse and more tedious and less money in it.

cult in Maryland, and he is also Chief Justice of the Maryland Court of Appeals, which is composed of the judges of the various circuits.

Martin F. Morris, Associate Justice of the Court of Appeals, is a resident of the District of Columbia, and has made an enviable reputation as a lawyer. He was associated for many years with the late Richard Merrick in the practice of law, the Star route cases being one of their most notable cases. He is about 60 years of age.

The nomination of Seth Shepard to be one of the Associate Justices is calculated to cause a commotion in Texas, where Mr. Shepard occupied politically a position approximating that of the anti-snappers in New York. Mr. Shepard's character as a man and a lawyer is unimpeachable. He has practiced law in Dallas ever since his majority, and he is now about 48 years of age. but politically he has many bitter opponents, and it is all owing to the silver question. He was chosen as the Hampass Convention delegate-at-large to Chicago. When the State convention met to nominate a Governor a strong minority bolted. Mr. Shepard remained for a time, aithough in sympathy with the bolters, but when the convention adopted a free silver coinage plank he also went out, and has since been closely identified with the clark faction.

L. Q. C. Lamar of Mississippi, who is made Recorder of the General Land Office, is the eldest son of the late Justice Lamar of the Supreme Court, and acquired some knowledge of the methods of the Interior Department when private secretary to his father while he was Secretary of the Interior.

Robert K. Gillespie, who was nominated to be Principal Clerk of the Public Lands in the General Land Office, was nominated at the request of Mr. McMillan of Tennessee. Mr. Gillespie is from Gallatin, Tenn., and is about 35 years old.

the Senate.

Mr. Hoar inquired after Mr. Roach took his seat whether the Demecratic Senators would permit his investigation to be agreed upon by unanimous consent.

Mr. Vance, Chairman of the Committee on Privileges and Elections, to whom the inquiry was specially directed, said he could not speak for other Senators, but that, so far as he was concerned, he would make no objection.

as he was concerned, he would make no objection.

Mr. George said that he would not be a party to such an agreement, and he denied the power of the Senate under the circumstances to institute and conduct an investigation in reference to the conduct of a Senator, which conduct had transpired prior to his election. He also denied absolutely that any consent on the part of the Senator whose conduct was proposed to be investigated would give jurisdiction to the Senate. Mr. George made a constitutional and legal argument in support of his position.

At the close of Mr. George's argument, Mr. Gorman gave notice of a substitute, which he would offer for Mr. Hoar's resolution. The substitute directs the Committee on Privileges and Elections to inquire into and consider the question whether the Senate has authority or jurisdiction to investigate charges made against a Senator as to conduct or offenses occurring or committed prior to his election, not relating to his duty as Senator or affecting the integrity of his election. Mr. Chandler then addressed the Senate in support of the Hoar resolution.

AN OCEAN HORBOR

Story of the Survivors of the King James dispatch from San Francisco a few days ago told of the burning of the ship King James, coal laden, from Newcastle, New South Wales, to San Francisco, her abandonment by the crew in the boats, and the final rescue of all the men of the mate's boat and the landing of a part of those of the crew of the Captain's boat at Santa Barbara after being picked up at sea by a passing steamer. Each boat had sixteen persons on board when they left the ship. As stated in the dispatches all the men in the Mate's boat were saved, but when the Captain and his people were rescued there were but five left. John Spivy, one of the men in the Captain's boat, tells a thrilling story of their experience in the San Francisco Examiner. He says: "Billy Brees and myself lay down in the stern of the boat to die. I wanted to die. My very life seemed to be soaking away in the cold water and the colder winds that howled above the waters. We put our arms around each other before we became unconscious, and said we would die together. I cared not whether the boat floated or sank. When I woke up I was clasping a corpse, and Mueller and myself lowered poor Billy over the side and wondered who would be the next to go." But there was no next. the Captain's boat at Santa Barbara after ler and myself lowered poor Billy over the side and wondered who would be the next to go." But there was no next.

After fourteen hours spent in the water-filled boat, the waves dashing clear over it every minute, the Captain and Mueller with their large sea-boots got the boat nearly bailed out, and the spirits of all revived a little with the coming of light.

Flynn, the sailmaker, became wild for water. He tried to drink sail water, and became furious when the Captain prevented him. Then he jumped overboard, being rescued with difficulty, and had to be securely lashed to the bottom of the boat by Mueller and the Captain.

Out of the sixteen men who started the day before there were only left the Captain, the sailmaker Flynn, Apprentice John Spivey and Seamen John Mueller and William Spence. Spivey and Flynn were lying in the bottom of the boat like dead men.

The ship's papers, sextant, chronometer and other boat of spence. Spivey and Flynn were lying in the bottom of the boat like dead men.

The ship's papers, sextant, chronometer and log-book were all gone. The heads of the two water-breakers had been broken to be used as bailers, all the provisions had been swept away and the oars and rudder were gone.

After working many hours the strongest of the men contrived a rudder out of the bottom boards of the boat and put up the mast and sail, which stayed with the boat through all its buffetings. With these they made good headway. Towards dark all the men lay down in the boat. Finally falling asleep, the men slept all Saturday night, and Sunday morning set sail.
They sailed all day Sunday without food or water, and when on Monday morning an island was sighted they made for it. The shores were dangerous looking, and they skirted around the island looking for some signs of habitation. They sailed on to the next island, Santa Rosa.

The men by this time were dying of thirst. For nearly four days they had had no water or food, and they opened one of the four small cans of fresh beef they had saved put of all of the provisions and tried to eat. Their parched tongues and swollen lips refused the morsels, and after trying to force it down they gave up the attempt. By this time they could see on Santa Rosa Island green pastures and a fence around one patch.

Spence said he was dying with thirst, and came up and blew them away from the island, and they saw him no more.

Finally the wind freshened, they took fresh courage and shaped their course for the passage between Anacapa and Santa Cruz Islands, one of the most dangerous on the coast, which they made about dark. The light at Point Hueneme was then visible and for that they steered. When the sun rose on the following morning they were picked up. They were within two miles of Hueneme Wharf, but had not enough strength left to guide the boat there. On the day the boat left the burning ship it was capsized and four men were drowned. The Captain says that when the boat left the ship he put the second mate, Daniel Ireland, a strong, intelligent Scotchman, at the ship he put the second mate, Daniel Ireland, a strong, intelligent Scotchman, at the tiller. He says that steering a boat by a wheel and tiller was quite different, and he noticed thet Ireland made several mistakes and cautioned him. Capt. Drummond thinks that Ireland in his nervous state became rattled and put the tiller the wrong way at a critical moment for he says a gust of wind came and the boat went over like a flash. It may have been the recollection of his mistake that drove Ireland crays. He was the fourth

THE HAWAIIAN GOVERNMENT WILL BE ALLOWED TO GOVERN ALONE.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., April 14.-The American flag has been hauled down from the tower of the Government Building at Hon-olulu, and in its place floats the ensign of Hawaii. The United States marines been withdrawn. The hauling down of the flag was witnessed by hundreds. pleasant duty was performed by Lieut. Droper of the Marine Corps, The halyards moved slowly, and the red, white and blue came down, Instantly the Hawaiian colors fluttered to the top. The provisional forces saluted. There was hardly a murmur from the crowd. Silence prevailed when the American flag disappeared and there were no cheers for Hawaii's restored colors. Two days after this ceremony United States Commissioner flower and assured them that no foreign powers would be allowed to take a hand in Hawaiian affairs pending the negotiations with Uncle Sam. Rumors are still plentiful as to Japanese intentions, but they are pooh-poohed by Blount. One report is that another big cruiser is coming to join the Naniwa Kun. The commander of the latter is said to have declared that he would not hesitate to turn his guns on the Boston and Mohican if it became necessary. This kind of talk is regarded generally as ridiculous. moved slowly, and

When questioned further as to the truth of the statements contained in special dis-patches to Western newspapers that Mr. Blount was conniving at the restoration of Queen Lilliokalani and would support her return to the throne, if need be, by the forces of the United States steamer Boston, he said he knew nothing about it and de-clined to express his opinion upon the sub-ject. regard of the hauling down of the of Feb. 11, 1893:

The phraseology of your proclamation in amouncing your action in assumption of protection of the Hawaiian Islands in the name of the United States would appear to be tantamount to the assumption of a protectorate over those islands in behalf of the United States, with all the rights and obligations which the term implies. To this extention of the structions as heretofore given you.

So far as your action amounts to according, at the request of the de facts sovereign government of the Hawaiian Islands, the co-operation of the moral and material forces of the United States for the protection of life and property from apprehended disorders, your action is commended. But so far as it may appear to overstop that limit by setting the authority and power of the United States above that of the Gevernment of the Hawaiian Islands in the capacity of protector, or to impair in any way the independent sovereignity of the Hawaiian Government by substituting the flag and power of the United States as the symbol and manifestation of paramount authority, is is disavowed.

Comment of the New York Independent NEW YORK, April 14 .- The Inde eek will publish the following additional particulars and comments concerning the Syrian text of the four gospels, the discovery

f which at Mount Sinai has been ann not yet informed whether it contains the whole New Testament or not, but it does contain at least the four gospels, substanwhole New Testament or not, but it does contain at least the four gospels, substantially complete.

"It is a palimpsest manuscript and the work of reading it is not easy. The Curetonian is the earliest syric revision of the New Testament, going back, it is believed, into the second century, and was replaced in common use by the Feshitto, which is the ordinary Syric version and hithers to the most valuable of all the versions of the New Testament, Only Iragments of the Curetonian Syric were before known, obtained from odd leaves of parchment found in the Nitrian Monastery. Scholars will be very much interested to know that this new manuscript, which we hope will be published before long, does not contain the last eight verses of Mark, although the Nitrian Iragment does contain a part of them. We can hardly say what may be expected.

"Within the last few years there have been discovered a commentary, from which we recover much of the Diatessron of Tatian, the teaching of the apostles, the apology of Aristides, portions of fragments of the Jerusalem-Syriac version of the New Testament

Insurance on the Murdered Stockman's Life to Be Contested.

BROWN'S POLICY.

THE AGENT DID NOT DELIVER THE POLI ICY UNTIL AFTER THE MURDER.

He Had Received the Policy Three Weeks Before the Stockman's Fatal Encounter With Robbers, But Meglected to Take It to Him-The Provident Savings and Assurance Co.'s Novel

An interesting legal point has been raised by the Providence Savings and Assurance Society in the case of Edwin E. Brown, who was murdered March 2 by robbers, s murdered March 2 by robbers, Franklin avenue, near Compton thue. The agent in this city of company is Ross Witherspoon, has his office in the Bank of merce building. Three weeks before the murder Mr. Witherspoon went over to the stockyards in East St. Louis, where Mr. Brown, a member of the firm of Brown Bros. & Co., was engaged in business and solicited him to take out a policy on his life. Mr. Brown consented and applications for two policies of $5,000 each were made out in favor of Mrs. Brown as beneficiary. The applications were sent East and in due time the policies arrived and were received by the agent. It is the custom to collect the premium upon delivery of the policies and as yet Mr. Brown had paid in no money to the company. Agent Witherspoon neglected to take the policies over to East St. Louis for two weeks, and one morning he learned from the newspapers that Brown had been murdered. Feeling that he would lose the insurance on her husband's life if the premiums were not paid Witherspoon took the policies over to the stock yards delivered them to a member of the firm and collected them to a member of the firm and collected the premium $105$. Recently an adjuster of the Provident. Society came to St. Louis and among others took the Brown case in hand.

A procest has been entered under the law that unless the premium is paid before the death of the law that unless the premium is paid before the death of the law that unless the premium is paid before the death of the law that unless the premium is paid before the death of the policy-bolder the company cannot be held responsible. The case has not yet been passed upon. Mr. Witherspoon refused to talk about it to day further than to say that he hough the money would be paid. The point as raised in this case has probably never come up before and the case is one that will make a new railing in insurance litigation. The claim of the benificiary is that Witherspoon acted as the agent of the company, and that it is therefore responsible and must pay. wn, a member of Brown Bros. & Co.,

HOME GAMES.

They Will Be Very Popular at Large or Small Parties.

Let us imagine that we have issued our in vitations and that the eventful evening has arrived. The usual greetings over, summon a council and let them decide which they nusic? or games? or Mrs. Jarley's wax-Entertainment? Suppose we decide on story-telling! Gather your little audience together around the fire; let them sit on the hearth-rug if they will (conventionalities go to the wall at children's parties), or better, tell it to your weryone scrambles for a chair; and as there is one more player than seats, someone is left out in the cold, with the satisfaction that his or her misfortune will only evoke a peal of laughter.

Another amusing pastime, and one that is invariably much enjoyed, is "Shadow Buff."

Another amusing pastime, and one that is invariably much enjoyed, is "Shadow Buff."

Another amusing pastime, and one that is loss of the selection of the form of a shadow pantomime. A three-fold clotheshore is brought up from the laundry—one about 5 feet high for preference. Across the three panels a sheet is stretched tautly and a little lady, who is to play the part of Mile. Buff, is seated in front of the screen, at a distance of a few feet. At the back a couple of candles are placed, about eighteen inches from the frame. The various performers then pass behind the screen, of course those forming the procession and to call out the names as much as possible, and it is the duty of Mile. Buff to distinguish the little ones forming the procession and to call out the names as they pass; failure means a forfiet, in addition to remaining in penance till a correct guess has been given. Of course those behind the acrean should do their best to disguise their identity.

A lot of fun may be extracted from the game of "Hot Cockles." The players are arranged in a circle, and one of them is blindfolded and compelled to kneel down in the center. The various guests then advance and mark their appreciation of her conduct by a light blow. It is for the culprit to discovere the person who salutes her, and the one so discovered tates the culprit by place.

"The German Band" is often a great favorite with children. The "band" is formed of every one assembling in line, the leader standing on a chair and giving the signal for a start. The different instruments are then imitated with more or less skill, each parinter taking for his model the conductor. First are initiation at the drummer may be given, followed by the trombone or symbals; then we have the triangle, clarinet, life, rench horn and bassylot. Precision is the point to be almed at by all the instrumental.

read, or better, tell it to your youthful auditors. There is no lack of subjects to choose from; Hans Andersen's delightful romances form excellent reading and will be listened to with tapt attention. The fairy tales that have appeared in the Children's page will never weary them, although they have probably read them over and over. There is only one suggestion to make with reference to this form of entertainment—do not make the selection too long, a story that will occupy twenty minutes in delivery is long enough; more than this may pail on your listeners, and that would be a thousand pittes.

A pleasant variation in the programme, after the reading, is a game in which romping will figure prominently; it is just possible that papa will object to this, but he romped himself when he was young.

A nice, noisy, nonsensical pastime is "Musical Chairs." Several chairs are placed in a line, the little ones range themselves in order, and the planist commences one of Offenbach's merriest polkas. During this time the youngsters march round the chairs till the music suddenly stops—at the discretion of the performer—with the result that everyone scrambises for a chair; and as there is one more player than seats, someone is left out in the cold, with the satisfaction that his or her misfortune will only evoke a peal of laughter.

Another amysing pastime, and one that is invariably much enjoyed. is "shadow Buff." June — 7.88 5.03 7.90 tune — 7.98 5.03 7.90 tune — NEW YORK-Spot market easy and unchanged; middling, Sigc; sales to spinners, 260 bales; construct sales, 215,800 bales.

The Weather Has a Depressing Effect on the Market, But a Number of Sales Were Made Nevertheless - Reperts From Agents.

The cold and disagreeable weather to-day did not materially interfere with the sale of real estate, though it caused a decided falling off in the inquiry at the offices of the agents. J. C. Darst reports the sale of seven and a half acres of ground on Page avenue and the Wabash Railroad, just beyond the city limits, for 515,000, or 32,000 an acre, from Wm. Baker to C. C. Marsh. The piece adjoins the twentyfour acres of Gummerbach and nineteen acres from Scanion, recently purchased by Mr. Darst, and is east of the Gansey tract, sold to a syndicate a short time ago for $95,000. Mr. Marsh will plot and subdivide the property for disposal in residence

BOB'S DOLL HOUSE.

He Made It in Five Days at an Expenditure of Ninety Cents. Bob made it for the Twins. The Twins received it as Bob's birthday gift. They will assure you that they own it, but 'it is Bob's Doll House because he made it.' At first they were for insisting upon this legend for the doorplate; but Bob, though he was proud the doorplate; but Bob, though he was proud enough of his job, modestly refused the honor they proposed, especially, he said, because the doorplate is for the name of the people who live in the house. The Twins said they couldnt have it so because the doll's names would cover the whole front door and more too; and they could not think of naming them all over again to fit into one little doorplate. Bob laughed and teased them a little and then said it was only for the

When this was explained to the Twins they said they liked having it in the center of the front, and its being larger than the doorplate; but they were afraid they could not always remember the meaning of "erected" and "Anno Domini," and they would rather have something they knew "just said 'Bob made it' every time they looked at it."

But they were much obliged to papa for telling them where to place it. So Bob printed the inscription for them, in their own way, and with neat rulings to represent a tablet between the front windows of the second floor.

Bob says the most important thing about it is that it only cost 30 cents, He has kept the Items. Boxes, 40 cents; large brass hinges, 30 cents (if the fittings had not been brass, it would have cost less); small hings and catch for the front door, 12 cents; screws and sandpaper, 8 cents. There were four large starch boxes; the long shallow boxes of half-inch white wood mitred at the corners, neatly finished and planed smooth outside and in; 26¼ inches long, by 14% and 6% deep. He bought them, the four at a bargain, of the grocer. He was some time getting them, too; watched for them himself, going to the shop every day as he did for mamma. So he got them when they were first emptied and clean.

He is a pupil of the training school and has his own tool box which papa gave him in good order and a bench in a corner of the play-room. He took off the lids of the boxes carefully; made his own working drawing, used a try-square with his saw and by taking pains had everything right as he went along. Each pair joined together end to end, with hinges. One pair was to stand, fixed on a box or table of convenient height for the little girls and the other was to swing open. This one had the front door in it with hinges and hasp.

The house was made by setting portions of the lids in each box lengthwise, as for sleves, fastening them from the outside with brass screws, setting up partitions above and below, and fastening them in the same way. The front door and windows were mad

At 3:15 o'clock this morning the proprietors wished to close the place, and issued an order to the waiters not to serve four young men who had remained until that hour with any more drinks. The party, who were more or less under the influence of liquor, took exception to this order and when one of the Newman brothers attempted to remonstrate with them, one of their number promptly knocked him down. The other three, it is said, started to use him as a foot ball, when Henry Schlesinger, a waiter, rushed to the assistance of his principal. He attempted to pull John Holmes, Jr., of New Orleans, one of the assailants, away and received a violent blow in the face for his pains, breaking his nose.

He Will Define the Boundaries of All Parishes to Be Organized in the Future - Meeting of the St. Louis Presbytery -Beligious News.

op Kenrick has appointed Rev. Pr. J. A. Connolly, rector of St. Teresa's Church, as his vicar to define the boundaries of parishes recently organized and others to be organized in the future. Nothing has used so much friction in Roman Catholic cles in the last year or two as the creation of hew parishes. Assistant priests who elt themselves entitled to be passors and who were unwilling to await heir chances of promotion when resent pastors died, went to the Archbishop and pointed out to him a jerritory which was eed of a church. It is the custom fo in need of a church. It is the custom for priests who are organizing new parishes to ask the permission of the pastors upon whose realins they were encroaching. An amicable division of territory was thus made, the old pastors, as a rule, showing a generous spirit toward the pastors that were to be. But this courtesy has not always been observed in recent years, and the old archbishop has become so feeble that he could not leave come so feeble that he could not leave his residence. As a consequence he lost his familiarity with the parochial geography of the city and he frequently defined the bound-aries of a new parish not knowing that he cutting the heart out of an old parish.

Strangely enough Fr. Connolly, who has been made arbitrator in such cases, has been the latest complainant. His church is situated on Grand avenue near North Market street, and Fr. Shields of St. Patrick's Church recently organized St, Mathew's parish, the eastern boundary of which was vandeventer avenue. The members of St. Teresa's parish protested and the archhishop made Sarah street the eastern boundary of St. Mathew's. It is worthy of note as indictive of the Archbishop's sentiment toward his priests that Fr. Connolly, was one of the late Fr. Brady's four friends among the pastors. Fr. Connolly came from De Soto, Mo., a few months ago.

Schuyler Memorial Building.

The laying of the corner stone of Schuyler will be an event of much interest to Episcopalians. Four o'clock is the hour set for the ceremony. The building is situated in the rear of Christ church cathedral, on the south side of Locust street. It is named in honor of the Rev. Dr. Montgomery Schuyler, the venerable reactor of Christ Church. The building has a frontage of 60 feet on Locust street and runs back along the alley a distance of 100 feet. Bishop D. S. Tuttie will my the stone and lead the accompanying services. The choir of Christ Church will sing, and the ritual observed will differ slightly from the one used for the laying of a church corner-stone, the prayers being changed to suit the occasion. When complete the building will be three stories high. The first and second stories will be the Sunday-school and guild rooms of Christ Church and the third story will be termed the clergy nouse in which the assistant rector of Christ Church will reside. Schuyler Memorial building will cost over $35,000 and will be a substantial and ornamental addition to the Cathedral.

Dunnivant's lawyers took exceptions to the ruling and presented a motion to have the order set aside. But it is the general opinion that the suit will be dropped. There is much speculation over the unexpected termination of the famous case.

The suit was brought because Dunnivant believed that Potter had continuously tried to get rid of him since the time Dunnivant fell in love with Gertrude Potter. That happened in the spring of 1885. Dunnivant was then a newsboy. During the same year a boy named Allen implicated Dunnivant in a robbery. Allen turned State's evidence and was released, but Dunnivant was sentenced to four years in the penitentiary in January, 1887. While he was in prison his friends unearthed what they asserted was a conspiracy on the part of O. W. Potter to send the boy to jail. Dunnivant was discharged from Joliet in April, 1890. He began the suit soon after.

World's Fair Carpenters Denounce Settlement of the Strike

gas to Be Preferred Assinst the Han Who Did It. and Another Strike Probable-Liverpool Dock Laborers Will Strike if Their Demands Are Not Allowed The Trouble Beginning.

-Onicago, III., April 14.—Unless a change is made in the programme the carpenters employed at the World's Fair will go out on a strike next Monday. Last night a meeting of the Carpenter's Council was held, which continued in stormy session from 8 o'slock last evening until after lo'clock this morning. The carpenters are not satisfied with the result of the recent conference which settled the strike of the 4,000 World's Fair machanics. They say that Cogswell, the mechanics. They say that Cogswell, the President of the Council, did not authorize the affixing of his signature to the agreement in his absence, and that he did not agree to the decision, despite the fact that President Highsbotham and others said he authorized the signing of his name.

To-night at the meeting of the Building Trades Council the carpenters will prefer charges against an officer of the Building Trades Council for the signing of the name of their president to that agreement.

The feeling between carpenters and leaders of other trades is bitter, and it is believed that every union carpenter working at Jackson Park will quit work at the command of the President of the Council.

The proceedings of the meeting were secret nd the result was not given out. Rumor had it, however, that a strike would be de-clared for Monday.

LIVERPOOL, April 14.—The notice given yesterday by the Dock Laborers' Union at Liverpool to the Shipping Padara averpool to the Shipping Federation that inless the demands of the workmen were compiled with a strike would be inaugurated, stated that the ship owners must give an answer by Monday morning next.
If the demand were not conceded then the men would at once quit work.
The dock laborers at this port have resolved to support the Hull men and will refuse to unload vessels of the Wilson Line while the strike is pending.

ANN ARBOR ENGINEERS.

CLEVELAND, O., April 14.—General Su-perintendent Canniff of the Lake Shore Railroad was closeted in his office all morning with the engineers who went out at Toledo during the recent labor troubles. They all petitioned for reinstatement and discussed the case with Mr. Canniff for several hours. At noon they were still in session.

HOW A HERD IS ROUNDED UP.

It In Effected by Means of Long Days of Hard Riding. From the Chicago Tribune.

The general round-up of a district requires from sixty to a hundred cowboys and from 800 to 500 cow-ponies. Two or three big wag-ons, filled with bedding and cooking and camp utensils, accompany the round-up over nountains and across valleys and bad lands. The entire district is ridden over thoroughly by the cowboys. Gulches, can-yons, draws, sagebrush bottoms, cotton-wood grooves, bad lands, in fact every foot and picturesque scene.

Fifty or sixty miles of hard riding a day is the average distance covered by a cowboy during the round-up. Five to seven horses are in his string. Tough and wiry as they are, the fierce chasing over broken, rough and stony country uses them up and for a time takes the spirit out of them. No day's riding is too hard, however, too keep a cowboy out of a race if one is proposed. No cavairy charge could be a more spirited sight than that of a line of cowboys, every man yelling like an Indian and every horse doing his best in a half-mile race across some level stretch of soft prairie. There is quick work to be done when some mother and calf too weak to be driven with the herd are found. A couple of ropes thrown around the head, and legs of the lusty young calf hold it to the ground. A fire of sage brush or driftwood heats the branding irons to a dull red, and the cabalistic signs which mark the ownership of the victim are burned increalicably into the animal's quivering side.

There are but two meals a day on the round-up. Breakfast is long before sun up, and dinner when the day is over. After dinner is a period of ealoyment. The appetites, sharpened by fifty to sixty miles' hard riding, have been appeased with bacon, potatoes, hot biscuit and coffee. Unlucky candidates for the duties of night herd have gone swearing and grumbling from the camp to their lonesome duties, and there is nothing to do but talk over the day's gdventures, smoke and tell stories. The anticipated routing out at 4 o'clock the next morning cuts short the evening's pleasures, and by the time dusk changes into the early darkness of the appring night beds are pulled from the baggage wagon and the camp is asieep.

Crop Cullings.

It is still dry in Kanasa and the temperature there below freezing, as it is also in Neuraka and she western part of this State and extending asstward. But as wheat is not jointed freezing weather will not injure the plant. The reports from the fields continue to come generally very bad, especially from this State, Itilnois, Nebraka and Kanasa, and particularly from Kanasa. The crop of that State is undoubtedly in a critical condition and must have relieving rains very soon in order to raise any kind of a sized crop at all. No improvement is noted in the more Eastern States through the favorable weather that has prevailed up to the present time in April: There is nothing so far to indicate that the next Government report will be higher than the last, but every indication that the figures will be considerably below 77.4. A change from the late spleadid prospects of case is anticipated in this morning's advices, a reference to which Kanasa City—Heavy frost last night, and bad reports from Southwest Kanasa.

Private wire to J. P. Grier.

CHICAGO, April 14.—We have had a quiet wheat market to-day with little doing in the May option. Without any anxiety to sell it the holders have stood in the market meeting the demand as it came. The July has been moderately active. The crop reports are not all that could be wished for, especially from Kansas, where rain is so much aseded. Until these conditions change, it is safe to buy on weak spots. The French crop is officially reported to be from 6 to 23 per cent, under an average crop in the several districts. This points of about 15 ber cent under an average crop and cable advices are the weather is too dry for the growing plant. Corn opened duil but fairly steady The only buyers appear to be local shorts. So early in the season we cannot see all good reasen for so much decline and think purchases of July about 42e will pay. BUYFALO, April 14.—Canal men here are indignant at Canal Superintendent Hanan's letter announcing that the canal cannot be opened on May I and neglecting to say when it can be opened. The Merchants' Exchange has appointed a committee to go to Albany to investigate. The canal is usually opened on May I, and as the season is early and repairs to be made are light it could be opened even ahead of that time this year. It is a matter of great importance, because if the New York fleet does not get here by the time the 10,000,000 bushels of grain from Chicago reach Buffalo, the greater part of this unprecedented shipment will go to the rail roads, which therefore are likely to reap a rich profit out of Supt. Hanan's delay, Canal men here say the delay of a week in the opening of the canal will make a difference of half a cent in their freight rates the whole season.

DAILY AND SUNDAY, 15 CENTS A WEEK.

Who Is This Billy Smith, the Pugilistic Wonder.

RUMOR SAYS HE IS RELATED TO THE GEORGIA STATESMAN.

He Was Educated at Old Phillips Exeter A Puritan Prize Fighter's Romantie History-Corrigan's Inaugural Entries -Track and Stable Gossip-Base Ball -Sporting News of All Sorts.

"Mysterious" Billy Smith, of whom the porting world has recently heard so much, still keeps the talent guessing both as to his identity and puglistic capabilities. The handsome, boyish-looking New England lad matched to fight the recoubtable Tom Villiams, the champion welter-weight of Australia, at the Coney - Island Athletic Club, next Monday night, and the dead game sports who love a mill are endeavoring to netrate the veil of mystery which surounds his past life and get a line on his fistic dentity, but they have gained an insight nto his pugilistic life. They have discovered that though he has barely passed his majority he has never yet been com-pelled to lower his arm, but, on the contrary, has a long and unbroken record of victories to his credit. Early in his teens Billy fought a draw with Jack Dempsey hen the then famous Nonparell was at his fittest and best. He then whipped a dozen good men in the three years following, his latest victim being the renowned "Shadow" Maber of Australia.

Billy Smith, although an open-faced, rosycheeked boy, whose honest blue eyes denote frankness as well as resolution, positively refuses to disclose his real name or the place of his birth. He says in extenuation of his strange behavior that his parents are of good old New England stock, Puritanical in ideas, and he does not wish to do anything that may tend to annoy or humiliate them.

John Hickey, the famous Lynn sport, who ooks after Smith's interests, in a burst of dence told John R. Eckhardt of the Coney Island Athletic Club, who was his guest at Nahant Beach last week, what little he knew of Smith's early life. Even to his end and backer is Billy reticent as to his Identity.

Smith, Hickey said he had learned from good authority, was born at a large seaport town on the Maine coast. His real name is amos Smith, Billy having been assumed when the wild young lad of Maine started out on his adventurous career. Billy's parents are wealthy and gave him an excellent education. Although never a bully, he was a fighter from the gradle and would never permit any young gentleman to him an excellent education. Although never a bully, he was a fighter from the cradle and would never permit any young gentleman to tread on the tail of his coat. This sturdy, aggressive spirit in due time got him in a peek of trouble. Billy was in the third and last year of his preparatory course for college, at the famous old Phillips Academy, at Exeter, N. H., the grand old seat of learning made renowned by the evolution of such glants as Daniel Webster, Rufus Choate, Charles Sumner and Wendell Phillips—when he became involved in a serious fracas. A big, strapping fellow, who was the acknowledged bully of the school and who ruled with an iron hand, determined to thrash the Maine boy for some evidences of insubordination which Billy had shown. Billy would not accept a licking and a battle royal followed. It was fast and furious fighting and Billy won, not, however, until he had received a fearful beating and had pummelled his adversary into insensibility. Both lads were expelled from school, and Billy's parents, deeply angered by his conduct, intimated that he must make his own way in the world. He took them at their word, and like a wandering knight-errant ne migrated to the West to see what fortune had in store for him.

dering knight-errant he migrated to the West to see what fortune had in store for him.

One night he visited the California Athletic Club and witnessed a fight. It captured his heart, and he at once went to the management and begged to be pitted against the winner. In a bantering spirit the management informed him that they would put him up against a third-rate man. Billy accepted and knocked out the third-rate man in a jiffy. After that he was matched with any number of good men, and he thrashed them all as handly as he did the "stiff."

A visitor to Nahant last week recognized in Billy an old schoolboy friend, and at once informed his manager of some points in his career. He declares that Amos, or Billy Smith, as he calls himself, is of the same family as the Hon. Hoke Smith of Georgia, Secretary of the Interior. Hoke's people, as is well-known, came from the East, and are all a sturdy, aggressive lot. The family resemblance of the different branches is decidedly marked, and "Mysterious" Billy albeit much younger, bears a striking likeness to the Georgia statesman.

Billy is putting in great strokes of work at the beach and will be strong enough to do battle for a crown when he meets the Australian. He quaintly observes that he is delighted to hear that Williams is a fast fighter, "as a quick decision is always most satisfactory in these things, both to the principals and the public."

Tom Williams, the big-shouldered, lion-hearted Australian, is not one whit dismayed at the prospect of facing so fierce and game a fighter as Billy Smith. He is training faithfully near Highbridge and will be as hard as bed rock when he steps over the ropes on the night of battle. He knows he has a tremendous task cut out for him, but confidently expects to accomplish it successfully.

BOLING TOURNAMENT GOSSIP.

Mr. S. C. Sparks, a middle-weight, six feet tail, representing the Mechanics' Club, has entered, and judging by his performance at a club meeting last night, he will cause some of the others in his class to do their very best to keep pace with him. He and Mr. Cooper of the Mechanics' Club made a very creditable three-round setto last night, to show Mr. Morris, who was present to address a meeting of members, what they could do. Mr. Cooper boxes like an old veteran and is very clever. The Mechanics' Club will develop some of the best athletes in the city. They are all big, muscular men. Mr. Harry McCoy, their light weight member, is from Boston. He won in his class at two tournaments.

One fact of interest is that there are six heavyweights entered, all over 6 feet tail and weighing from 150 pounds up. All being gentlemen and extremely clever, some very scientific and interesting boxing is anticreated.

Cincinnati team, principal owner in the park and grounds at that point says that he is holding himself ready to assume the Louisville League franchise any day and transfer the Colonels to the Hoosier capital. No work has been done on the Louisville grounds preparatory to opening the season, and it is given out that the Kentucky management is only waiting for bids to sell out. The first game scheduled at Louisville is May The first game scheduled at Louisville is May 27, and Brush says if Louisville does not want to go ahead with the schedule, Indianapolis is prepared to take all its interests in the league and transfer all the games to that city. The grounds can be put in order in five days, and all the money necessary to back the club, provided it is a National League club, can be secured in ten hours. Indianapolis seems to be the only available place that could take the club now without disarranging the whole twelve-club schedule."

But Indianapolis will not have the pleasure of taking the transplanted Colonels to its bosom, as President Ruckstuhl's refusal of Milwaukee's offer yesterday clearly shows.

ANSON AND HIS COLTS.

ANSON AND HIS COLTS.
"I am better pleased with the pitching department of our club as it now stands than I ever have been since I joined the Chicago team," says Captain Anson in a letter to President Jim Hart. "In Hutchinson, Stratton, Mauk and McGill we can't be beat. McGinnis has not yet come around, but may do so at any time. Kittridge is in much better do soat any time. Kitridge is in much better shape than he has ever been since he joined us. Long has not been very well, so I can not say very much about him. Newman is playing better ball than last season, and so is Dungan. The latter is throwing better also. Carathers' arm is still sore, but othewise he is all right. I have quite a job on my hands in picking the outfield. I have only six outfielders to select from. Parrott is all right and is playing good ball. I have not played in any games myself so far and probably will not this week, as I am very sore just now."

Ed Corrigan says it will not take much work to fit Huron for the Jockey Club Inaugaral. Speaking of the race he said recently "I don't know what I will start. I named Helter Skelter, Joe Murphy and Huron, I think, but none of them are fit to race now and I don't know as they will be when the meeting opens. All of them look well, but none can tell what they can do at the end of a month. Perhaps I may not start any of them. Time will tell."
